Washroom renovation that balances functionality, style and durability

The project.

Located in the heart of Dublin, Fibonacci Office has recently launched their new international HQ to house this highly renowned tech giant. The building expands over eight levels including modernised conference rooms, lounge areas, a restaurant and gym facilities to cater for over 2,000 employees. Designed to foster collaboration and to meet top global sustainability standards, Fibonacci offers a cutting-edge work environment and stands as one of the most eco-friendly workspaces in Europe.

The challenge.

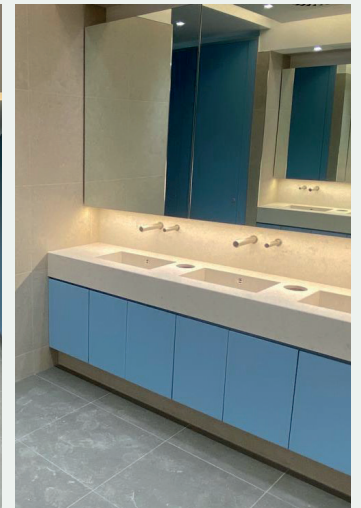

Fibonacci Office needed washrooms that reflected its innovative culture and commitment to sustainability while meeting the dynamic needs of over 2,000 employees. With high daily footfall, the washrooms had to be durable, hardwearing, and provide privacy and comfort to support staff wellbeing.

Tight project timelines added complexity, requiring pre-engineered solutions for efficient installation without compromising on quality or aesthetics. Working with Crofton Interiors, we were tasked with delivering washrooms that balanced functionality, style and durability under time constraints.

The solution.

To meet Fibonacci Office's unique challenges, Unity Full Height toilet cubicles were chosen for the male, female, and accessible washrooms across the two interconnected office buildings. These premium cubicles are designed for privacy and comfort, offering full floor-to-ceiling panels that create the feel of a private space - ideal for staff wellbeing. The sleek, flush-fronted doors and durable High Pressure Laminate (HPL) construction make Unity Full Height a popular choice for high-traffic environments. With outstanding resistance to impact, heat and scratches, the cubicles are engineered to maintain their quality and appearance over time, even under heavy use.

Unity Full Height cubicles are complemented by high-end hardware, including satin anodised aluminium and stainless-steel fittings, ensuring durability and longevity while adding a touch of modern sophistication. The seamless design and robust construction not only enhance privacy but also perfectly align with Fibonacci Office's innovative and sustainable architectural vision.

In addition to the cubicles, our revolutionary Vepps pre-plumbed panelling system was specified for all washroom areas. Vepps significantly reduces installation time, offering up to 50% faster onsite assembly compared to traditional panel systems. This efficiency was crucial for meeting the tight project timelines, allowing the washrooms to be completed on schedule. Vepps also supports ongoing maintenance, with its hinged access panels providing easy access to plumbing for servicing and repairs.

Both Unity Full Height cubicles and Vepps were finished in a bespoke non-standard colour, 'Cumulus', selected outside of our range of 34 laminate options, specifically for client branding purposes. This soft, natural tone enhances the serene, modern aesthetic of the washroom spaces, beautifully complementing the building's architectural features.

Our bespoke washroom solutions delivered the perfect balance of style, functionality and efficiency. By combining the contemporary design and hardwearing durability of Unity Full Height cubicles with the innovative time-saving benefits of Vepps, we were able to provide Fibonacci Office with a washroom environment that prioritises staff comfort and privacy without compromising on aesthetics.

We are proud to have played a role in supporting Fibonacci Office's vision for a cutting-edge and sustainable workspace, delivering washrooms that will serve their staff for years to come.
